The Stuart Crofts Adult Caddisfly Occurrence Scheme

Background

For as long as I can remember I have had an interest in insects, as a boy I would spend my summer holidays catching butterflies, hunting down grasshoppers and feeding hapless flies to hungry spiders. When I started fly-fishing a detailed study of the insects that the fish I was trying to catch actually fed on, was for me, just a natural development. I have since spent many years collecting and studying the mayflies (Ephemeroptera) and stoneflies (Plecoptera). Obviously, knowledge gained from these studies has helped my fly-fishing.

Around 20 years ago my curiosity started to turn to the world of caddisflies (Trichoptera) but my fly-fishing books had only the briefest of information and I wanted to know much more. From 1993 until 2008 I had the great fortune to fly-fish with various fly-fishing teams representing England in many different countries. During my travels and fishing at these events I have met with anglers from all over the world some of which also had a keen interest in the entomological aspect of the sport. From these gatherings it soon became obvious that, with the adult caddisflies especially, the UK fly-fisherman's understanding was full of huge gaps.

In the spring of 2006 I had a letter printed in Fly-Fishing & Fly-Tying, a popular and informative UK based fly-fishing magazine. In this letter I appealed for help from the readers, I needed them to catch and send me any adult caddisflies they came across whilst out fishing. My idea was then to identify these specimens and create a database of where & when our different adult caddisfly species are on the wing, the aim being to get a better understanding of adult caddisflies and their relationship with the sport of fly-fishing here in the UK. This was the birth of my Adult Caddisfly Occurrence Scheme (not to be confused with the The National Trichoptera Recording Scheme that records both caddisfly adults and larvae – see bottom of page for details).

Since the scheme started I have had many, many thousands of individual adult caddisfly samples sent in and the database has grown steadily. I have also enrolled other "collectors" (who are not anglers); these have included my family & friends and members of various Natural History Societies. To be honest anyone who has shown even the slightest interest has been roped in! This has expanded the areas from which I receive samples to beyond that of the fly-fishing related sites, as a result, an even greater variety of species started to come through.

Each year all the data is sent to Dr Ian Wallace. Dr Wallace coordinates The National Trichoptera Recording Scheme that covers both the adult and larval stages of caddisflies and after checking the data he uploads it onto the National Biodiversity Network (NBN) Atlas. I also send the data to The Freshwater Biological Association, the Riverfly Partnership, Buglife (The Invertebrate Conservation Trust), my local natural history society (Sorby), everyone who sends in the samples and anyone else who just asks!

2017 – Review

2017 has been an amazing year for my Adult Caddisfly Occurrence Scheme, the number of sample tubes sent in to be analysed was, as in previous years, very impressive. This gave me the job of having to check over 1,200 individual adult caddisflies, each and every one checked, identified and catalogued. The scheme recorded 95 species in 2017 and all the results can be seen on the chart following this review. Ninety-five species is no mean feat but what is even more impressive is that this is the 8th year in a row that the scheme has recorded over 90 species – a fantastic and consistent effort by everyone who sends in the samples.

I had another new species for the data set this year, this was Oecetis notata and that brings the total number of species recorded by the scheme since 2006 to around 150, again a wonderful achievement. The story of the capture of Oecetis notata is worthy of note; Andrew Dixon (my good friend and fellow caddisfly enthusiast) and I were on a mini expedition to Shropshire to record adult caddisflies and one of the sites we visited was the River Seven at Montford Bridge but when we arrived at the river the task looked a lot more difficult than we expected. This was due to the fact that the river flows between very steep banks, it flows fast, and it looked quite deep in the edges making sweep netting for adult insects over the river or amongst overhanging trees and vegetation virtually impossible. With this we retired to the local pub for some refreshment and to review the plan. It was during this period that we realised there was a canoe hire centre in the corner of the pub carpark. After a short negotiation with the owners Andrew managed to hire one of the canoes for an hour. My boating skills are not that great but thankfully Andrew is very much at home on the water. And so it was that Oecetis notata was collected with a sweep net from a canoe!

This was not my only expedition of 2017, I also visited the same area with Dr Ian Wallace and another couple of caddisfly enthusiasts namely Peter and Sharon Flint. On this trip we recorded quite a few interesting species but it was Peter who got the catch of the trip with an adult Hagenella clathrata, I had never seen this species but even though I did not catch it myself I did get chance to take a few photos before it was released. In September I had another expedition that was totally inspired by this caddisfly recording scheme, this time to the Isle of Man. Why the Isle of Man I hear you ask; well it is quite simple, I did not have an adult caddisfly sample on my database from there. So that was reason enough! On this trip I went with my good friend Derek Whiteley a very passionate recorder of all types of wildlife, not just insects. On the caddis front my highlight was Hydroptila sparsa, not a rare species in Britain but a first record for the Isle of Man.

During 2017 I once again received support from the Cressbrook & Litton Fly-Fishers Club (www.cressbrookandlittonflyfishers.co.uk), their support has helped me greatly with the ever increasing postal charges and the costs sample tubes.

Last, but by no means least, a huge thank you once again to everyone who has sent in samples, not just this past year but way back to 2006. Without you the scheme simply would not exist. And, also my very sincere thanks to Aki Rinne, Dr Ian Wallace and my good friend Andrew Dixon, to name but three, their help and support is vital to my work.

Stuart Crofts,

January 2018, Penistone, South Yorkshire.

Adult Caddisfly Occurrence Scheme Records 2017

Caddisflies are listed in alphabetical order. When more than one sample of a particular species has been found they are listed in "date caught" order

Adult Caddisfly Occurrence Scheme 2018

- If you are already a collector and want to continue to do so during 2018 you do not have to do anything other than just read the notes below as a reminder of how to deal with any samples you get (if you have no tubes left then please let me know so I can send some to you).
- If you are not yet involved with the scheme but would like to take part then please drop me an email (or a letter) so I can send you some collecting tubes and simple instructions.
- If you no longer want to be part of the scheme then please return any tubes you have not used with a note and I can remove your details from my database.

Adult Caddisfly Collecting Notes

If you get any adult caddisflies (not larvae) just put them live into a tube. As soon as possible put this into a domestic deep freeze for about 5 minutes. This is considered a humane way to immobilise/kill an adult caddisfly, but please don't leave them in too long as they will fall apart! Next, fill the tube with either neat vodka (or similar clear spirit such as gin), or a 50/50 mix of isopropyl alcohol and water, any of these will preserve the caddisflies until they can be identified. However, do not use neat isopropyl alcohol, meths or surgical spirit in any form, all these will desiccate a caddisfly making it very difficult to work with while I am trying to confirm its identity.

Write on a small slip of paper (see "Helpful Hints & Tips") in pencil, where (the approximate location) and when (the time & date) you caught the sample along with your name. Put this in the tube with the caddisfly samples (alcohol will have no effect on either the paper or writing in pencil). Please do not stick a label on the outside of the tube, as these often just fall off, or write on the outside of the tube which makes it easier for me to reuse them.

Drop the tube back in the post to me with your name and address along with any other notes of interest on the capture. I can then post back another empty tube in return. You can put the tube in any type of strong envelope (they do not need to be padded), the tubes are very tough and will not leak. You will need to put, at the very least, a "large letter" stamp on the envelope due to its thickness with a tube enclosed. But, if in any doubt please get the package checked at the Post Office before sending, their costings and guidelines for posting can and do change.

I do not get much chance to analyse samples until the long winter evenings, hence the reason to preserve them in alcohol.

You can expect many different types of adult caddisfly to be on the wing from March to the end of November. They range in size from 3mm to nearly 30mm and we have 200 very varied species, most are found near water but they can turn up anywhere, some are very common and others incredibly rare. So, even if you only think you have one send it along for me to check. Additionally, don't ever worry if you think you have caught the same type twice, again please send it along; this information is useful for the "flight period data".

At the year-end and after all the samples have been identified I will put together an annual review. A copy of the review and data will then be sent to you, from this you will be able to see the species you caught and sent in.

Helpful Hints & Tips

Sample of an "information slip" to put inside a tube with specimens:

River Trent, Newark, Notts. NGR SK 792 536 0900hrs 04 July 2018, Fred Smith
--

You can put up to three or four caddis samples in one tube as long as they are from the same venue and collected at the same time. Do not forget to use pencil on the paper information slip, ink dissolves in alcohol!

National Grid Reference (NGR)

It is preferable to send along a six figure National Grid Reference (NGR) along with the approximate sample location name.

To check you have worked out more-or-less the correct locations of a sample you are sending there are now very good websites available. Here is one that I find very useful to check locations online:

<http://wtp2.appspot.com/wheresthepath.htm>

This is a fantastic site with a split screen showing a map and satellite view side-by-side so you really can see where you are, the control panel can be a bit tricky to use but you will soon get the hang of it. This is a free website but you can donate to help keep it running and sometimes it is not available because it has a daily limit.

Last, with any samples you collect it is very much appreciated if you can get them back to me by Christmas, at the very latest, of the calendar year.

Thank you for your support.
